

NAINUWA™

open your Mind

Nainuwa™ - open your mind

Nainuwa is the Latin notation of the Arabic articulation of Nineveh (Arabic: نينوى, Naīnuwa)

Nineveh was a Mesopotamian city that was founded in 1800 AD and destroyed in 700 AD. Hence Nineveh was far older than the city Alexandria (which was founded 331 AD). Like Alexandria also Nineveh had a library, the "Royal Library of Ashurbanipal". This library had -in about 25,000 demonstratively cuneiform clay tablets- the whole knowledge of that time collected. Like Alexandria also Nineveh was destroyed (in 700 AD).

Like the mentioned library with the 25,000 clay tablets; books and pages shall be presented in a demonstratively, clear and fast way with the new Viewer "Nainuwa™".

Challenges in digital libraries

Until now the search in digital libraries was exhausting and the demonstration only low intuitive and also low if pages with a high resolution should have been presented. Therefore researches in digital libraries have been like ordeals.

By the new kind of demonstration with Nainuwa™ new and unknown search, choose, sorting and display options are possible. Through the new optical display of the search results the inventory can be sorted by many ways and can therefore be presented in a totally new way.

For the user an in a new playful way is opened for the searching and finding of the digital libraries.

Source: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Library_of_Ashurbanipal

Source: <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nineveh>

Further information about Nainuwa™

Stephan Tratter
TREVENTUS Mechatronics GmbH
Cell: +43-1-8903510-02
Mail: tratter@treventus.com